COORDINATING CARE FOR PATIENTS IN NEED

The Dayton Regional Pathways HUB is a regional clinical-community linkages care coordination system that addresses the medical and social determinants of health. The Pathways HUB strives to help low-income individuals and families achieve a healthy life. The Pathways HUB connects clients to needed medical and social services-including food, housing, transportation, and other things that can impact health and wellness. The Pathways HUB System includes multiple care coordination agencies that employ community health workers and other care coordinators, who work with residents to identify the greatest barriers and manage them one by one.

HOW PATHWAYS WORKS

The Dayton Regional Pathways HUB uses the Pathways Community HUB model which is recognized by the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality as a data-driven approach to identifying and addressing risk factors at the individual and community levels.

Upon enrollment, every client meets with a community health worker (CHW), who completes a comprehensive risk assessment. Each risk is translated into a "pathway," including unmet needs for food, housing, and other social services. Risks are addressed one at a time, with clients helping to determine priorities.

Pathways are tracked through completion in the electronic health information database, and this comprehensive approach and heightened level of accountability leads to improved outcomes and reduced cost, according to the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality.
